High-Caliber Clients. Low-Visibility Presence. Massive Upside.

Executive Summary

The Digital UpRoar has something most agencies never earn: preferred vendor status with TAO Group Hospitality and 50 Eggs Hospitality — two of the most recognized names in American nightlife and dining. Governor Greg Abbott and actress Tisha Campbell have DigiBiz Cards on file. Driscoll Children's Hospital, NeueHouse, and the City of Pharr are in the tour portfolio.

The problem is none of this is visible, findable, or persuasive on the website.

The site reads like a first draft: incomplete headline, outdated references, no testimonials, no case studies, zero Google reviews, and a platform (Wix) that fundamentally caps what search engines can see. The mismatch between the caliber of the client roster and the state of the digital presence is the defining finding of this audit — and the defining opportunity.

Audit Category	Score	Key Finding
Design & User Experience	4/10	Wix template. Generic. No brand differentiation in layout.
On-Page SEO	3/10	Severe keyword cannibalization. Shallow targeting.
Technical SEO	4/10	Sitemap submitted. But Wix CSR is a hard ceiling.
Content Quality & Depth	3/10	Blog dormant 15 months. Service pages thin.
Conversion Optimization	3/10	No pricing, no intake form, no lead magnets.
Trust & Credibility	4/10	Great clients. Zero testimonials or reviews to show for it.
Digital Presence / Backlinks	2/10	Invisible in search. No directories. No reviews.
Hero Copy	3/10	Incomplete headline. Image embedded in text. No subhead.
Body Copy & Messaging	4/10	Vague, generic, outdated. Undersells the client roster.
CTA Architecture	3/10	7 CTAs fighting each other. None visually dominant.
COMBINED OVERALL SCORE	3.8/10	Strong niche & real clients. Digital presence does not match.

1. Hero Section — Score: 3/10

The hero is the most important real estate on any website. A visitor decides whether to stay or leave within 3–5 seconds. The current hero fails that test.

What's Currently There

Headline: "We live in a [LOGO IMAGE] digital agency à la carte"

Subheadline: None

CTAs: "Recent Tours" (XML icon link) | "CONTACT" (mailto:) | "Book a Call" (PNG image)

Visual: Static company logo

Social Proof: None above the fold

[CRITICAL] The headline is incomplete — a logo image is embedded mid-sentence

→ Fix: Replace entirely. The text 'We live in a [IMAGE]...' renders as broken copy on slower connections and is conceptually unclear. Write a real headline.

[CRITICAL] No subheadline or value proposition anywhere in the hero

→ Fix: Add 1–2 sentences that answer: What do you do? Who is it for? Why does it matter? This is the most impactful single fix on the entire site.

[CRITICAL] 'Book a Call' is a PNG image — not a real button

→ Fix: This is inaccessible to screen readers and invisible to search engines. Replace with a properly styled HTML button: 'Book a Free Strategy Call.'

[MODERATE] Hero visual is a static logo — it shows nothing about the product

→ Fix: Embed a live 360° tour preview or autoplay video reel directly in the hero. The product is experiential — show it in 5 seconds or lose the visitor.

Recommended Hero Rewrites

Option A — Outcome-led: "Let the World Walk Through Your Business — From Anywhere."

Option B — Challenge-led: "Your Next Client Is Googling You Right Now. What Do They See?"

Option C — Brand-led: "We Make Spaces Unforgettable — Virtually, Visually, Digitally."

Subhead (all options): "Immersive virtual tours, video content, and digital tools for hospitality, retail, and entertainment brands. Trusted by TAO Group, 50 Eggs Hospitality, and Driscoll Children's Hospital."

Primary CTA: "Book a Free Strategy Call" | Secondary: "See Our Work"

2. Copy & Messaging — Score: 4/10

Good B2B copy does three things: speaks to a specific audience, demonstrates value clearly, and drives toward an action. The current copy does none of these consistently. Below are section-by-section findings.

Virtual Tours Section

[CRITICAL] "It's 2024..." in the TapGenie section — the year is outdated

→ Fix: Update to current year or remove the date-specific reference. A stale date tells buyers the site has not been maintained.

[MODERATE] Exclamation point overuse undermines professional credibility

→ Fix: 4 exclamation points in 3 sentences reads as hypey. For B2B buyers at hospitality groups, this signals low sophistication. Reduce to 1 per section maximum.

[MODERATE] "Basic to Ultra Premium" tiers are never defined — no anchoring

→ Fix: Replace with named tiers (Essential / Professional / Signature) that hint at what is included. Even vague tier names are more useful than a range with no detail.

Current copy:
"Virtual Tours have quickly become an Essential tool in letting the world see/hear and explore your business from the comfort of your own phone!"
Suggested rewrite:

"Immersive virtual tours are now the standard for hospitality, retail, and entertainment brands serious about their online presence. Our tours range from clean-and-functional to fully branded experiences — complete with custom hotspots, audio narration, VR compatibility, and Google Street View integration. Trusted by TAO Group, 50 Eggs Hospitality, and Driscoll Children's Hospital."

About Us Section

[CRITICAL] The About section is generic boilerplate — could belong to any agency on the internet

→ Fix: 'We built our solutions by closely listening to our potential clientele...' says nothing. Add: who Ruben Cepeda is, the origin story, the NYC roots, what makes The Digital UpRoar different. Hospitality is relationship-driven — buyers want to know who they're calling.

[MODERATE] The phrase 'boutique digital agency à la carte' is used 3 times on the homepage

→ Fix: Use it once. Repetition dilutes rather than reinforces. This phrase is genuinely clever — let it breathe.

[CRITICAL] 360 Travel Guy personal project appears mid-agency website with no context

→ Fix: This creates brand confusion. Either label it clearly ('Our Founder's Creative Side') or move it off the homepage entirely. A first-time visitor has no frame of reference for it.

Blog Section

[CRITICAL] Blog dormant for 15 months (last post Dec 2024) — signals inactivity to Google and buyers

→ Fix: Resume publishing 2–4 posts per month. Expand topics beyond virtual tours to include video, DigiBiz Cards, AR, and industry trends. The 24-post archive is a foundation, not a finish line.

[CRITICAL] Severe keyword cannibalization — 6 posts on hotel virtual tours covering the same ground

→ Fix: Google cannot determine which post to rank, so it ranks none. Consolidate repetitive posts into 5–6 definitive pillar articles (1,500–2,000 words each) with 301 redirects from merged URLs.

Recommended About Us Rewrite

> "The Digital UpRoar is a boutique digital agency for brands that want to be seen, explored, and remembered. Founded by Ruben Cepeda, we specialize in immersive virtual tours, dynamic video content, and smart digital tools — built for the businesses that can't afford to be invisible online.
>
> We've earned preferred vendor status with TAO Group Hospitality and 50 Eggs Hospitality, and our work spans nightlife venues, hotel properties, hospitals, event centers, and government offices from New York City to Austin, Texas.
>
> No bundles. No bloat. Just the service you need, done right."

3. Calls to Action — Score: 3/10

The homepage has at least 7 CTAs pointing to 6 different destinations. None are visually dominant. There is no primary action a visitor is clearly being invited to take. This is the architectural root of the conversion problem.

Current CTA	Problem	Recommendation
"Recent Tours" (XML icon)	Icon-only; unclear destination	Replace with: "View Our Portfolio →"
"CONTACT" (mailto link)	Opens email app; bypasses your form	Replace with: "Let's Talk" → scrolls to contact form
"Book a Call" (PNG image)	Not a real button; inaccessible	Real styled button: "Book a Free Strategy Call"
"Email us for FREE QUOTE!"	Buried in body copy	Pull out as styled button: "Get a Free Quote"
"get@mytapgenie.com"	Second email address = confusion	Consolidate to one email or redirect to form
UNMXD graphic design link	Sends traffic off-site permanently	Open in new tab; add return path
"Get a Free Quote" (VT page)	Form with only 3 fields	Add: venue type, square footage, timeline, budget

Recommended CTA Hierarchy (Every Page Should Follow This)

#1 — Primary CTA	"Book a Free Strategy Call" → Calendly (high contrast, above the fold)
#2 — Secondary CTA	"See Our Work" → Virtual Tours portfolio page
#3 — Tertiary CTA	"Get a Free Quote" → Scrolls to contact form

4. Trust & Credibility — Score: 4/10

The Digital UpRoar has elite-tier social proof. The problem is almost none of it is on the website in a format a buyer can see and act on.

[CRITICAL] Zero client testimonials despite TAO Group, Governor Abbott, and Tisha Campbell as clients

→ Fix: Even 2–3 strong quotes from recognizable names would be transformative. Email your top 5 clients this week requesting a one-sentence testimonial. Feature them on the homepage and every service page.

[CRITICAL] No 'Trusted By' client logo bar on the homepage

→ Fix: TAO Group and 50 Eggs logos above the fold would immediately elevate perceived authority. This is likely the single fastest credibility fix available. Add it before anything else.

[CRITICAL] Zero reviews on Google, Clutch, G2, or any third-party platform

→ Fix: When buyers search 'The Digital UpRoar reviews,' they find nothing. This is a disqualifying signal for enterprise buyers. Target 10 Google reviews in the next 60 days. Set up a Clutch profile.

→ Fix: Hospitality is a relationship business. Buyers want to know who they're calling. A prominent 'Meet the Founder' section with background, mission, and personality converts consistently in this vertical.

[CRITICAL] Footer copyright reads 2023 — site appears unmaintained

→ Fix: Update to © 2026 The Digital UpRoar. A two-year-old copyright is a quiet trust killer.

[MODERATE] No press, awards, certifications, or industry affiliations visible

→ Fix: A company serving TAO Group should be pitching stories to Skift, Hotel Management, and Hospitality Design. Even one press mention anchors credibility.

5. Pricing Strategy — Should They Show Prices?

This is the most common strategic question for boutique service businesses. Here is the complete analysis for The Digital UpRoar's specific situation.

The Case FOR Showing Pricing

- Pre-qualifies leads automatically — eliminates discovery calls with price-sensitive buyers who aren't a fit
- Reduces friction — many buyers need a number before they'll start a conversation
- Signals transparency and confidence — builds trust vs. competitors who hide pricing
- SEO asset — 'virtual tour pricing' and 'virtual tour cost' are high-intent buyer search queries
- Works well for productized tiers (Essential / Professional / Signature)

The Case AGAINST Showing Pricing

• Projects vary significantly — a flat price can undervalue complex multi-location jobs or scare off simple ones

• Competitors can undercut once rates are visible

• Enterprise hospitality buyers (TAO Group-tier) expect custom pricing — a $500 tier anchor could work against you

• May reduce premium positioning perception if your actual prices are lower than what a prospect assumed

The Recommendation: Tiered Anchor Pricing with 'Starting From'

The verdict: Show pricing — but use starting-from anchors, not fixed prices.

This captures both benefits: it pre-qualifies budget-sensitive buyers AND keeps high-end custom deals fully open. Here is the recommended tier structure:

Essential Tour — "Starting from $X" (basic space capture, Google Maps integration, 1 location)

Professional Tour — "Starting from $X" (custom branding, hotspots, narration, social delivery assets)

Signature Tour — "Custom Quote" (full production, VR compatibility, multi-location, white-glove service)

Key rule: "Starting from" sets a floor and pre-qualifies budget without anchoring your ceiling. Never publish your maximum — only your minimum. The Signature tier at "Custom Quote" keeps enterprise doors fully open.

6. Technical SEO Summary (from Full Audit)

The following findings are drawn from the full technical audit. They provide the infrastructure context for why copy improvements alone won't solve the visibility problem.

[CRITICAL] Wix Thunderbolt CSR is the single biggest technical ceiling on the entire site

→ Fix: Wix renders all content via JavaScript client-side. Google can process JS but it's deprioritized, delayed, and unreliable. Every other fix is less effective until the platform question is resolved. Evaluate migration to WordPress, Webflow, or Next.js.

[CRITICAL] No Google Analytics GA4 or Google Search Console confirmed

→ Fix: Zero visibility into traffic sources, user behavior, or conversion paths. Install GA4 and connect GSC immediately — this is free and takes 30 minutes.

[CRITICAL] No LocalBusiness, Service, or Article schema markup

→ Fix: Eliminates eligibility for rich results in Google SERPs. For a visual services company, schema markup is a critical miss. Add at minimum: LocalBusiness and Service schema.

[CRITICAL] No Google Business Profile confirmed

→ Fix: Eliminates the company from 'virtual tour company near me' and local map searches in Austin and NYC — its two primary markets.

[MODERATE] qr.thedigitaluproar.com subdomain splits domain authority

→ Fix: Move DigiBiz Card landing pages to www.thedigitaluproar.com/digibiz/ to consolidate all authority under one domain.

7. Priority Fix Roadmap — 90 Days

Days 1–30: Foundation (Do These First)

#	Fix	Impact
1	Add 'Trusted By' logo bar to homepage (TAO Group, 50 Eggs, key names)	Instant credibility lift for new visitors
2	Rewrite hero: real headline, subhead, and a proper CTA button	#1 conversion driver for cold traffic
3	Update 'It's 2024' to 2026; update footer copyright from 2023	Immediate trust restoration
4	Replace Book-a-Call PNG with a real styled HTML button	Accessibility + conversion improvement
5	Install GA4 and Google Search Console; submit sitemap	Free — enables data-driven decisions
6	Create and verify Google Business Profile (Austin, TX + NYC)	Appears in local search and map results
7	Request Google reviews from 10 past clients (start with strongest relationships)	Target 10 reviews in 60 days
8	Create LinkedIn Company Page; post 5 portfolio highlights	Primary B2B discovery channel

Days 31–60: Content & Trust

#	Fix	Impact
9	Rewrite TAO Group and 50 Eggs pages as full case studies (challenge, solution, results)	Converts browsers to believers
10	Collect 5–10 written testimonials; feature on homepage and service pages	Addresses #1 buyer objection
11	Add 'Meet the Founder' section with Ruben's story and photo	Hospitality buyers buy from people

12	Build dedicated Pricing page with 3 tiers (Starting from model)	Captures 'virtual tour cost' search traffic
13	Build 'Get a Quote' intake form with project scoping fields	Improves lead quality dramatically
14	Implement LocalBusiness, Service, and FAQ schema markup	Rich result eligibility in Google SERPs
15	Create Clutch and DesignRush profiles	B2B discovery + backlink authority
16	Rewrite About section with founder story and differentiator language	Converts relationship-driven buyers

Days 61–90: Growth & Visibility

#	Fix	Impact
17	Resume blog: 2–4 posts/month; expand to video, DigiBiz, AR topics	SEO content engine restart
18	Consolidate 24 blog posts into 6 pillar articles with 301 redirects	Eliminates keyword cannibalization
19	Launch YouTube channel with tour walkthroughs and behind-the-scenes	Owned media + SEO for video queries
20	Create 'Hospitality Guide to Virtual Tours' PDF lead magnet	Email capture for early-stage buyers
21	Install live chat (Tidio or HubSpot free tier)	Immediate engagement for hot leads
22	Begin pitching Skift, Hotel Management, Hospitality Design for press coverage	Backlinks + credibility in key trade pubs
23	Evaluate platform migration (WordPress/ Webflow) — get build quotes	Removes the fundamental SEO ceiling
24	Build 'Industries We Serve' page (hotels, nightclubs, restaurants, events, government)	Captures vertical-specific buyer searches

8. What They Are Doing Right

This audit leads with problems because those are what need fixing. But the foundation is genuinely strong — and worth protecting as changes are made.

Preferred vendor status with TAO Group + 50 Eggs	These are top-tier hospitality brands. Most agencies never land clients at this level. This is a competitive moat — it needs to be the first thing a visitor sees.
Notable DigiBiz clients	Gov. Abbott, Commissioner Morath, Tisha Campbell — signals access to high-influence networks beyond hospitality.
Clear niche positioning	Focused on virtual tours for hospitality. Specificity beats generalism in service businesses. Don't dilute this.
Clean domain history	No spam penalties, no toxic backlinks. The domain is healthy — a platform migration would preserve this cleanly.

Blog with 24 posts exists	Most competitors have zero content. The archive is repetitive but it's a foundation to refine, not rebuild.
DigiBiz Cards as second revenue stream	Productized service that diversifies revenue. Notable clients validate the product.
Dual-market presence (NYC + Austin/Texas)	Two distinct geographic and industry networks — a rare asset. Currently not communicated on the site.
Sitemap and robots.txt properly configured	Shows technical awareness. Correctly blocking aggressive bots. PetalBot blocked.

Closing Assessment

The Digital UpRoar is a business with a premium client list and a beginner's digital presence. That gap is the opportunity. The fixes required are not exotic — they are fundamentals: write a clear headline, show who you've worked with, get 10 reviews, add pricing anchors, and make it easy for a hospitality buyer to say yes. None of these require a platform migration to start (though migration should be planned). The first 30 days of fixes are almost entirely copy, design, and configuration changes that can be made on Wix today.

The strategic ceiling is high. The Digital UpRoar has earned the right to dominate the 'hospitality virtual tour vendor' vertical in search and in reputation. The website just needs to catch up to the work.

Platform: Wix (migration recommended — evaluate within 90 days)

Domain: thedigitaluproar.com — clean, established, no penalties

Biggest Quick Win: Hero rewrite + client logo bar (can be done this week)

Biggest Structural Win: 10 Google reviews + case studies (60-day project)

Biggest Strategic Win: Platform migration to SSR stack (90-day planning horizon)

Pricing recommendation: "Starting from" tiered anchors — YES, show pricing
